EXACT TITLE OF LECTURE Great Chinese Paintings in Far Eastern Collections

AIM AND SCOPE OF LECTURE I expect to have some good color slides, made from large Ektachrome transparencies, of paintings in Taiwan and Japan which I chose for inclusion in the Skira volume; the lecture will be built around those. Some unpublished and important paintings in the Palace Museum collection will be presented, and questions of period and attribution discussed; also some revealing color details of well-known early masterpieces. In particular, I will deal with some Sung (10th - 13th cent.) paintings which have reliable signatures, and, in some cases, dates, and which can therefore be taken as pivotal points in studying painting of this period.
